Re: Weill Cornell Medicine Annual Regional Pre-Medical Conference

Date: November 13, 2020

Once again, the Weill Cornell Medical College will conduct its Annual Regional Pre-Medical Conference on Saturday, December 12, 2020. Due to COVID-19 social distancing restrictions, the conference will be held virtually via Zoom.

The goals of the conference are to: (a) expose high school and undergraduate college students to the vast opportunities for careers in medicine; and (b) to educate students about healthcare issues disproportionately affecting minority populations and the importance of diversity in medicine and healthcare delivery in general.

Due to the large number of responses in past years, and the limited capacity, please bring this to the attention of those students interested in the health professions. We also ask that you please forward this notice to any multicultural student and/or premedical student organizations on your campus.

The deadline to register for the conference is Friday, December 4, 2020. Please email the Office of Student Diversity at studentdiversity@med.cornell.edu with any questions. Enclosed is the tentative agenda and event flyer. You may register by clicking "Register Here" on the event flyer. Registration is free.

Thank you.
